Tim in KY The first 71 kilometers are a false flat rising from 188 meters at Pau to 714 m at the base of the Tourmalet. From there the remaining 83 km are all up and down with two HC climbs bookending a Cat 2. 07-12-2024

Tim in KY Kilometer zero is scheduled for 13:20 CEST. Finish is imagined either side of 17:30. Forecast is for clouds and sun with temps in the low-20s in the valleys, mid-teens on the mountains. 07-12-2024
01:40:29 pm

Tim in KY Interesting factoid: Pla d'Adet was first included in le Tour fifty years ago in 1974. It was a summit finish back then, too. That day, Mathieu van der Poel's grandfather won the stage. 07-12-2024

Joanna in Virginia In other news...the temps dropped 20 degrees so I immediately returned to "baking mode". Here is an image of what greeted me at 4:00 am: two large tubs of Sourdough dough that fermented overnight and is now shaped into loaves and in the fridge; a double dough of Biga for my Artisanal White Bread, about to be split and shaped and baked; and, a single dough of Biga for my White/Wheat/Rye Loaf currently bulk fermenting on my counter top. The things I do on a day off.

07-13-2024

06:54:12 am

Joanna in Virginia I pulled the starter out of the fridge yesterday morning, created a large tub of levain, and mixed my dough last night. I mixed the dough a little "past peak" due to going out to lunch with a friend, so was worried my overnight bulk fermentation would be sub-par. I could not believe my eyes, if I had waited any longer to split and shape my loaves, the dough would have overflowed the tubs. Needless to say, I am very happy with the performance of my starter.

Katie S Iâ€™m so confused re Covid protocol these days

07-13-2024
08:29:46 am

 BusterSci The chance of spreading it during the race itself is pretty minimal. As I understand, if you're not symptomatic you can continue. 07-13-2024 08:32:49 am

 Katie S So you're not contagious? Or since you're not hacking you're not spewing mass germs? 07-13-2024 08:34:43 am

 BusterSci I don't think you aren't contagious. It's more the spewing. 07-13-2024 08:37:07 am

 BusterSci Also, things are diluted pretty quickly when you're moving along at 40-50kph outside. It isn't like inhaling one active virus is going to result in infection. 07-13-2024 08:39:12 am

 Katie S True. 07-13-2024 08:39:51 am

But they visited one of my brothers at their nearby lake rental yesterday and that went well. Thanks for asking. 07-13-2024 08:42:44 am Mikey Just out of the field. Picked this morning!

07-13-2024
10:31:13 am

Katie S Very cool. Was the Schwinn the property of someone or free for the taking? Of course we in my bike club used to derisively call Schwinn's "gas pipe specials" ☹️

07-13-2024
10:31:41 am

Mikey Waterford has a great history. I have a biking buddy who collects them. His garage is full of them!

07-13-2024

07-13-2024
10:40:06 am

Joanna in Virginia So, my labyrinthine dysfunction has been overwhelming the last few days due to the intense pressure system changes. I stay very close to walls when walking so that I can support myself. As you all know, I cannot handle the POV videos on descents, I am having difficulty with the climbs, too. Stupid brain...

07-13-2024
10:59:46 am

Katie S This was a found plant from several years agoâ€¦ it was in a pot with something else. I extracted it, replanted it and voila! But I think weâ€™ll be lucky to get 3-4 berries.

07-13-2024
