

 Tim in KY The World Championship Elite Men's Road Race is 277 kilometers of 09-23 16:10

lumpy terrain along the North Sea coast of Norway. The start is 40 km in the coastal islands leading back to a 19 km circuit in and around Bergen.

 Tim in KY The Bergen circuit is the same as all the other road races and almost the 09-23 16:14 same as the time trial circuit.

 Tim in KY The circuit profile is not terribly demanding, even Salmon Hill is fairly 09-23 16:17 tame, but they ride it 12 times and that may take a toll.

CET (10:00 EDT). Live stream from the get go. Weather is forecast to be sunny and mild.

 Tim in KY Don't expect me here much before 13:00 CET (07:00 EDT). 09-23 16:25

 memb54 thank you, Tim. 09-23 22:28

 memb54 Good morning. On my own here. UCI has geographically restricted their live 09-24 06:03 transmission of today's race. I don't know why. So I'm back to my Polish friends on Eurosport. Love the Poles. :D

 BusterSci I'm just getting set up. 09-24 06:04

 BusterSci I've got 189.1km to go and there is a break with a 6:38 gap. 09-24 06:07

 BusterSci Let me add that outside of crashes, nothing that is happening now matters, 09-24 06:08 outside of fatigue. Who is in the break? Guys who won't be there at the end.

 BusterSci If you needed further confirmation, this is the break: Willem Jakobus Smit 09-24 06:09

(South Africa), Alexey Vermeulen (USA), Matti Manninen (Finland), Kim Magnusson (Sweden), Andrey Amador (Costa Rica), Conor Dunne (Ireland), Sean McKenna (Ireland), Elchin Asadov (Azerbaijan), Eugert Zhupa (Albania) and Salaheddine Mraouni (Morocco).

 BusterSci The Norwegians are going to rechristen that bit of underground the "Pee 09-24 06:12 Tunnel" as everybody stops there for a nature break. I bet they drive a fire tanker truck down there and hose it clean after the race.

 memb54 Hi, Buster! So, who's your bet for today? 09-24 06:16

 memb54 183.8 09-24 06:16

 memb54 6 45 09-24 06:17

 memb54 Been up since 4.30 by that is normal for me. 09-24 06:17 memb54 Today is National Day without Cars. So we're off for an organised ride. In 09-24 06:18 about an hour.

 memb54 Sounds like a good name for a tunnel. 09-24 06:20

 BusterSci Lots of talk about it being one for the classics hard men. So pick between 09-24 06:20

Sagan, GvA, Kwiatkowski and throw PhilGil in for a lark. EBH has been on form and this has to be a major objective.

 BusterSci If it's a sprint, it's hard to bet against Gaviria 09-24 06:20

 Rob PhillGill has been quiet for a while. 09-24 06:21

 memb54 Saga is recovering and hasn't been out to recon. I'd love EBH to win. Agree 09-24 06:21 with Gaviria.

 BusterSci But while I rarely play favorites, I'd like to see Dumoulin hit the last pass of Salmon Hill with everything he has and TT it to the end. I like the idea of a guy holding all three rainbow jerseys. 09-24 06:21

 memb54 TM my favorite, if course! 09-24 06:22

 BusterSci As far as the Sagan illness, I just don't put much faith into how riders say their form is going in. He's got no team, and he knows everyone is going to be covering his move and riding to make him lose. So he might just be bluffing to find a little space. 09-24 06:24

 memb54 Sorry, Dumoulin I meant. 09-24 06:24

 Rob Has Sagan got no riders with him at all? 09-24 06:25

 BusterSci Clarification: "No team" means "compared to Belgium." 09-24 06:25

 BusterSci On Phil, remember he won both Amstel and Flanders this year. 09-24 06:26

 BusterSci Slovakia started 7. 09-24 06:29

 Rob I never really got the points system to get team members, it seemed pretty unfair. But like I say I dont really understand it. 09-24 06:32

 BusterSci The big teams have 14. I agree, Rob. I understand the basic concept, but the details are beyond me. I think the part that is the most unfair to me is allowing the big teams so many riders. Cap it at 8 or 9 like the GTs. 09-24 06:35

 BusterSci Just under 170km to go. about 6 minute gap 09-24 06:37

 BusterSci I had that wrong. The big teams bring a lot, but start 9. 09-24 06:43

 Tim in KY Good day few. Here sporadically for a while. Can't be here for the finish. 09-24 06:45

 Rob It does seem unfair for a smaller country that doesnt have the funding but maybe a rider who has a shot. 09-24 06:45

 BusterSci You can find the max starters here 09-24 06:45

 Tim in KY What North American city is on the same latitude as Bergen? That's a very 09-24 06:49 low-angled sun for 13:00.

 BusterSci Whitehorse 09-24 06:51

 donny Morning gents 09-24 06:52

 Tim in KY Juneau come close at 58 degrees N. 09-24 06:52

 BusterSci Anchorage is about a degree further north. 09-24 06:52

 Tim in KY Another geographic tidbit. Bergen gets the most annual rainfall of any 09-24 06:53

European city.

 Rob No rain today I hope 09-24 06:54

 BusterSci Tim playing the Paul Sherwen role today, reading out of the office of 09-24 06:54 tourism guidebook.

 Tim in KY No. It's quite sunny today. 09-24 06:54

 BusterSci I'm sorry it's so early, because I'd be playing the Carlton Kirby role, 09-24 06:55 drinking out of a 750ml bottle.

 BusterSci 157.7km. 4:37 09-24 06:56

 BusterSci The scenery for this week has been nice. It's no Doha, of course, but it will 09-24 06:58 suffice.

 BusterSci I would like to see what the uptick in tourist visits to Bergen will be over 09-24 07:05 the next couple years.

 Rob Im going next summer, I dont know if I will go to Bergen but I am cycling up to Nordkapp to see the midnight sun. 09-24 07:10

 donny about a 150 to go and the gap is sitting about 4:30 09-24 07:14

 BusterSci My first trip to Finland started in Oulu and I've always regretted not taking the time to go another 100km north. Being that I slept all of about 20 hours that week, it wouldn't have made me any less productive. 09-24 07:16

 BusterSci The gap has been fluctuating between 4 and 5 minutes the last lap. I suspect the break is tired and the peloton realizes they're getting too close and backs off. 09-24 07:17

 donny I am hoping for either a Sagan win in a sort of small group, or TD win. Like BusterSci, I think there would be something sort of special about one guy with 3 WC jersey's next season. Pretty cool. Though Sagan 3 in a row would also be something special. 09-24 07:18

 BusterSci I just realized they called the climb "Salmon Hill" because it's sponsored by Norwegian Salmon. 09-24 07:20

 donny Thanks Buster, here I was thinking it was Salmon hill because it is the hill all the Salmon climb up to go to school. 09-24 07:21

 BusterSci I see Belgium. I see France. I see guys in the tunnel pulling off their pants. 09-24 07:22

 BusterSci Nice try Donny. Salmon take ladders. 09-24 07:22

 BusterSci What hasn't been great about this week. Say what you like about Cookson's reign, but this was the only World's that, selection through execution, was managed under his leadership and it has been perfect. Great course, great spectators, great scenery, great races. Even the time trials were exciting. 09-24 07:26

 Charles Davis Good Day all. Everyone in the US awake? 09-24 07:40

 BusterSci Jo, was that a Virginia winery, Long Island, or are you traveling elsewhere? 09-24 07:41

 Joanna in New York A Long Island winery. 09-24 07:44

 Joanna in New York Mediocre wine, but incredible atmosphere and great friends. 09-24 07:45

 BusterSci I'm not going to critique Long Island wines given my experience of Minnesota wines. 09-24 07:46

 Charles Davis I stayed up to late last night as well. Drinking Mt. Dew this morning. 09-24 07:48
That is rare for me.

 BusterSci To paraphrase Jean Shepherd, Minnesota wines are only wines in the academic sense, in that they are purple and they were once made of grapes. 09-24 07:48

 Joanna in New York I've had better wines here, but it is difficult to beat the atmosphere of this winery. Right on the Stony Brook Harbor, lovely old house. Fun. 09-24 07:50

-  donny eventS very very plural on that one 09-24 07:53
-  Tim in KY I'm pretty sure that's not Cookson's doing. 09-24 07:53

-  Charles Davis What about Trentin? He seems to be on very good form. Can he get up the hill? 09-24 07:55

-  BusterSci Good question, Charles, followed by the question of whether his form is as good as it seems or was more indicative of the weak sprint field at the Vuelta. 09-24 07:56
-  Charles Davis He also won another race in Europe last week. 09-24 07:57

BusterSci We're all together

09-24 08:48

donny apple has a new apple TV device coming out so they are slowing down the old 09-24 08:48 models same as they do with the phones. I think I am about done with Apple. After being an only Apple guy for the past 15 years, that company is feeling more and more like the apple that ruined mankind in the garden of Eden.

Joanna in New York The Fat Man is about to sing, loudly.

09-24 08:48

BusterSci I've got the new one, Donny

09-24 08:48

Joanna in New York Feed Zone, I'm going to grab some cereal.

09-24 08:48

donny sucker, the new one is not any faster. They just want to make you think it will be. 09-24 08:49

BusterSci While I've experienced the same thing, Donny, the answer is to turn off 09-24 08:50

auto-update on your older devices. They don't "slow down" the old models, they just optimize the OS for the new ones and the old ones can't handle it. Same for every software update ever.

donny Buster, that is a good theory but according to private research it is incorrect. 09-24 08:52

Apple, does in fact slow older devices, having nothing to do with the optimization of new OS software for newer devices. They will slow the older models before releasing the new software.

BusterSci To me the crime is simpler: Every full tick software update should come 09-24 08:52 with a disclaimer that says "If your device is more than 1 year old you will suffer performance losses with this update. You may want to consider keeping the prior OS."

BusterSci Personal experience: I have an old iPad still running iOS9 and a mini 09-24 08:53 running Mavericks. Work just like always.

Joanna in New York NRRBBB - did any of you know that Laz-e-Boy makes Hot 09-24 08:56

Tubs?

Joanna in New York We purchased one yesterday to replace our now defunct, crappy 09-24 08:56 hot tub, that come with the house.

 BusterSci No. Do the jets slow down when you upgrade the software? 09-24 08:57

 donny I have more faith in the big banks scruples than Apple 09-24 08:57

 Joanna in New York Possibly. 09-24 08:57

 Joanna in New York Ouch, went down hard. 09-24 08:59

 donny He might be hurt more than the Belgium team. 09-24 08:59

 Jennifer Simon Oh Buster, the size of that....picture! 09-24 09:14

 Joanna in New York Agreed, Buster! 09-24 09:15

 Jennifer Simon Thank you, Penguin. My new (2 year old job) out of the government cube farm actually has me working, so it's hard to sneak in during real time Nuttery. And I teach a little fitness class on saturday mornings, so I've been playing catch up lately. The last couple of weeks I've been able to hit up the Pub, tho. 09-24 09:16

 Jennifer Simon I try to stay in the loop on the FB, and appreciate the Pub updates there 09-24 09:17

 Jennifer Simon Youtube has a nice livestream in English 09-24 09:18

 BusterSci I retain my FB luddite nature. Frau fills me in when required, such as when people post entertaining penguin videos. Be assured that even though I'm not on FB, I see all of them. 09-24 09:19

 Jennifer Simon I'm sure. I did tag her in a super secret Nut communiqué a couple of nights ago. 09-24 09:21

 BusterSci I'm thinking next year I may go to Fubo instead of Gold. I like to believe I'm not affected by advertising, but I have to admit I think Fubo Chavez is the best advertising character since they replaced the Most Interesting Man in the World. 09-24 09:21

	SFinAusTx TD is staying up there for a very long time w/o breaking away. Who else is on the Dutch team he would be working for?	09-24 10:10
	BusterSci Dang the rotation!	09-24 10:10
	Jennifer Simon Adorable, Buster	09-24 10:10
	SFinAusTx Still, Awwwwwwww	09-24 10:10
	BusterSci She has this thing about "nursing" on fleeces. She bunches them up, takes a mouthful, and massages it with her front paws.	09-24 10:11
	Jennifer Simon She's just making the biscuits	09-24 10:11
	Joanna in New York We had a tense week with our Sweet Sofie. She had two ultrasounds, abdominal and thoracic, trying to ascertain cause for her occasional coughing/hacking/gagging. Images showed enlarged spleen and biopsy was taken. Thankfully, no sign of cancer and the heart and lungs look great. Now, I'm considering reflux. Just relieved that most, if not all, of the bad stuff has been ruled out.	09-24 10:14
	Marc @ Toad Hall Poor Sophie.	09-24 10:14
	Charles Pelkey We got a new addition to the house in the spring. This is Juniper, which Annika got as part of a "promposal" (with our permission, of course)	09-24 10:14
	Charles Pelkey //rumbletalk-images- upload.s3.amazonaws.com/61922326bc2ef459e5ed5de71ef53a57/1506262801-AnnikaCat.jpg	09-24 10:15

 Charles Pelkey It's when someone asks you to the prom ... rather formally? 09-24 10:16

 Marc @ Toad Hall Juniper looks like a charmer. Anikka, too, of course. She looks almost as tall as LUG in the photo. 09-24 10:16

 Charles Pelkey Annika is about six feet tall. So is her girlfriend. Juniper is not six feet 09-24 10:17

 Dave Ringle with a house formerly full of teenagers, that's a promposal over the top! 09-24 10:17

 Joanna in New York I couldn't get the image to attach to my prior post...Sweet Sofie, home from the vet. 09-24 10:17

 SFinAusTx After this season in the Pub, I feel the need to get a pet in the off season. 09-24 10:17

 Jennifer Simon Huh, ok. Back in my day, it was just awkward hallway conversations. Kids today are so lucky. If kittens were involved back then, I'd definitely say yes 09-24 10:17
